It's the sweetest day of the year! Join sisters, Anna and Bella, as they discover how easy it is to be kind in book 12 of the Fun in Flower series.

“My sister, Bella, and I made Valentine’s Day cards for our friends. We can’t wait to hand them out today. But before we can, disaster strikes, and I accidentally ruin all of Bella’s cards. Feeling terrible, I break the bad news to her. But instead of being angry, she just smiles and gives me a big hug. How can Bella be so happy when I just ruined her Valentine’s Day? I soon learn it’s because she has a plan . . . a very magical plan! We’ll make some new cards in Flower. And since time stands still when we’re in the magical land, we’ll be home before breakfast.”

This heart-warming story will inspire readers to be kind by holding open a door, saying 'thank-you', lending a helping hand, or brightening someone's day with a simple smile.

The Fun in Flower series focuses on positive relationships. Each book also contains a common issue, and solution, that children experience. Among the topics tackled are:

- going first
- including others
- shyness
- sibling rivalry
- perseverance

In addition, with easy-to-read language, and no evil/mean/scary characters, even the most sensitive child can immerse themselves in the stories, making the books ideal for bedtime. Appeals to ages 4-9.

Spark your child's imagination with the Fun in Flower series. Soon they'll be dreaming about magical gems, soaring through the sky, swimming with dolphins, and buzzing around like bees.
