

Art Carney Biography: A Legendary Career in Applause Books

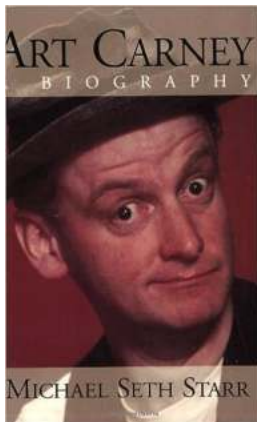

The Early Years

Art Carney, born Arthur William Matthew Carney on November 4, 1918, in Mount Vernon, New York, was an American actor and comedian who left an indelible mark on the entertainment industry. Carney's career spanned several decades, and he was best known for his role as Ed Norton on the legendary television sitcom "The Honeymooners."

Rise to Stardom

Carney began his career in the early 1940s as a radio actor, but it was his collaboration with Jackie Gleason in "The Honeymooners" that catapulted him to stardom. The chemistry between Carney and Gleason was electric, and their comedic timing was unmatched. Carney's portrayal of Ed Norton, the lovable and bumbling sidekick, quickly endeared him to audiences across America.

The Honeymooners: A Comedy Classic

"The Honeymooners" aired from 1951 to 1956 and followed the lives of two working-class couples living in a Brooklyn apartment building. Carney's portrayal of Ed Norton alongside Gleason's Ralph Kramden remains one of the most iconic comic duos in television history. The show's witty writing and impeccable performances made it a timeless comedy classic.

Transition to Film

Carney's success on television opened up new opportunities in the film industry. In 1974, he earned widespread acclaim for his role in "Harry and Tonto," where he portrayed an aging widower on a cross-country journey with his cat. The performance earned Carney an Academy Award for Best Actor, cementing his status as a versatile and talented entertainer.

Later Years and Legacy

Throughout his career, Carney continued to showcase his versatility, taking on roles in television, film, and theater. He appeared in movies like "The Late Show" (1977) and "The Muppets Take Manhattan" (1984). Carney's contributions to the entertainment industry were recognized with various accolades, including a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

(Applause Books). "A clear and well-written portrait of a superb performer and a wonderful human being, with emphasis on the word 'human.'" - The New York Times Book Review He was one of the most beloved stars of television's golden age. Together with his legendary partner Jackie Gleason, Art Carney helped create some of the most dazzling and unforgettable comedy ever presented on the small screen. Carney was an agile, rubber-limbed dancer and comedian whose sweetness and unassuming nature concealed the passion and power of a brilliant, often underappreciated, actor. The partnership formed by Carney and Gleason, as Brooklyn bus driver Ralph Kramden and his dim-witted pal, sewer worker Norton, remains to this day the most powerful and memorable comedic union ever conceived for television. How this song-and-dance man and show business recluse began his career, as well as the detours, lucky breaks, triumphs and heartbreaks Carney encountered along the way, is the subject of this fascinating, in-depth biography by author and New York Post editor Michael Seth Starr. ART CARNEY tells the story of a complex man and an enduring television legend who gave the world the most extraordinary gift of all: the gift of laughter.
