Not all backlinks are created equal. It is essential to understand the various types of backlinks to create a diverse and effective backlink profile. Here are the three primary types:

1. Natural Editorial Links: These backlinks are given without any request or effort on your part. They are the most valuable type of backlinks as they come from authoritative websites that genuinely find your content valuable.
2. Manual Outreached Links: These are backlinks that you acquire by actively reaching out to website owners or bloggers. This method requires careful research and personalized outreach to build relationships and earn valuable backlinks.
3. Self-Created Links: These links are typically low-quality and come from directories, forums, or blog comments. While they can still contribute to your backlink profile, it is crucial to focus on natural and manual methods to build high-quality backlinks.

The Skyscraper Technique, coined by Brian Dean of Backlinko, involves finding popular content in your industry and creating an improved version of it. This technique relies on the principle of offering greater value, making it more likely for websites to link to your content.

4. Infographics Outreach
