During Passover, Jews abstain from eating leavened bread, known as chametz, and instead consume matzah, which is unleavened bread. This dietary restriction symbolizes the hasty departure from Egypt, where the Jews did not have enough time to let their bread rise.

The Art of the Seder

The centerpiece of the Passover celebration is the Seder, a ritualistic meal that takes place on the first two nights of the festival. The Seder is a carefully choreographed experience that follows a specific order outlined in the Haggadah, a guidebook for the Passover meal.
