Vanderwater started her writing journey with her debut book, "Forest Has a Song." Through vivid descriptions and melodic verses, she took readers on a whimsical journey through the wonders of the natural world. From the gentle rustling of leaves to the soothing lullaby of a babbling brook, Vanderwater's words painted a picture that invited readers to explore the beauty that surrounds them.

As her popularity soared, Vanderwater continued to captivate readers with her subsequent works, such as "Every Day Birds" and "With My Hands: Poems About Making Things." Seamlessly blending imagination and education, she introduced young minds to the marvels of birds and the joy of creating. Through her rhythmic prose and vivid illustrations, Vanderwater ignited a sense of wonder and curiosity that continues to inspire young readers today.

Empowering Through Poetry

What sets Vanderwater's poetry apart is its ability to empower and uplift. In "Book Speak! Poems about Books," she celebrates the magic of reading, reminding readers of the extraordinary worlds that await them on the pages of a book. With each carefully crafted line, she encourages a love for literacy that transcends age, engaging even the most reluctant readers.

Vanderwater's extraordinary talent shines through in "The Proper Way to Meet a Hedgehog," where she explores the theme of courage and resilience in the face of adversity. Through these heartfelt poems, she teaches valuable life lessons and instills a sense of hope in the hearts of readers. Her ability to infuse the ordinary with the extraordinary is truly remarkable.

Flourish

All the women held hands,
Feet firmly rooted in the soil,
As they grew together.
Smashing through the ceiling,
Glass fragments fell from above
Like confetti.
Reaching clear skies,
At last they saw the world
From a different view.
It felt like change,
The earth looked brand new.

- Amy Larsen

With a keen eye for detail and a deep empathy for the human experience, Vanderwater's poetry resonates with readers on a profound level. Her works, such as "Dreaming of You: Poems about Love, Longing, and Laughter," capture the spectrum of emotions that often go unspoken. She crafts each verse with care, allowing readers to explore the depths of their own hearts and find solace within her words.
