

Sharon And My Mother In Law Ramallah Diaries: An Unforgettable Journey Through Life and Love

Life is full of unexpected twists and turns, often leading us down paths we never imagined we'd take. Such was the case for Sharon, a young woman from a small town, and her mother-in-law, who hailed from the bustling city of Ramallah. Little did they know that their lives would intersect in the most profound and life-changing way.

The Beginnings of an Unlikely Friendship

It all started when Sharon's husband, David, introduced her to his larger-than-life mother, who had recently moved from Ramallah to their quiet town. Despite the apparent disparities, Sharon felt an immediate connection with her mother-in-law, whose name was Aisha. There was something about Aisha's warm smile and gentle presence that put Sharon at ease, transcending any cultural barriers.

Based on diaries and email correspondence that she kept from 1981-2004, here Suad Amiry evokes daily life in the West Bank town of Ramallah. Capturing the frustrations, cabin fever, and downright misery of her experiences, Amiry writes with elegance and humor about the enormous difficulty of moving from one place to another, the torture of falling in love with someone from another town, the absurdity of her dog receiving a Jerusalem identity card when thousands of Palestinians could not, and the trials of having her ninety-two-year-old mother-in-law living in her house during a forty-two-day curfew. With a wickedly sharp ear for dialogue and a keen eye for detail, Amiry gives us an original, ironic, and firsthand glimpse into the absurdity—and agony—of life in the Occupied Territories.
