As the voyage continues, Abby ventures into the remote and serene landscapes of Zhangjiajie, an area renowned for its towering sandstone pillars that inspired the floating mountains seen in the movie "Avatar." With her trusty camera in hand, she captures the ethereal beauty of this natural wonder, its mist-covered peaks and lush green valleys leaving an indelible mark on her soul.

But Abby's journey is not limited to the majesty of nature. She delves into the fascinating world of Chinese cuisine, exploring the vibrant street food scene of Xi'an, known for its delectable dumplings and savory noodles. From the sizzling stir-fries to the mouth-watering Peking duck, Abby's taste buds are tantalized by the diverse flavors and culinary traditions of China.

Immersing in Culture and Tradition

Cultural immersion plays a pivotal role in Abby's voyage. She spends time with local communities, learning about their customs, traditions, and way of life. In the ancient city of Pingyao, she witnesses a breathtaking performance of traditional Chinese opera, adorned in beautifully intricate costumes that transport her to a bygone era of dynasties and emperors.

The voyage takes Abby to the enchanting water towns of Suzhou and Wuzhen, where she embarks on a tranquil journey through time. Exploring the narrow alleyways and crossing picturesque stone bridges, Abby experiences the serenity of these ancient villages, their centuries-old canals reflecting colorful traditional houses and ancient pagodas.

A visit to the famous Shaolin Temple in Dengfeng offers Abby the chance to witness the ancient art of Kung Fu firsthand. She is enthralled by the incredible athleticism and discipline displayed by the Shaolin monks, whose movements are a testament to centuries of martial arts mastery. She even has the opportunity to learn a few basic techniques, an experience she will cherish forever.

A Story of Transformation

Throughout her voyage, Abby undergoes a remarkable transformation. The China Voyage is not just about the places she visits, but also about the personal growth and self-discovery she experiences along the way. She learns to navigate the maze-like streets of Beijing, to communicate with locals who speak little English, and to adapt to the cultural nuances of a foreign land.

As she immerses herself in China's traditions and customs, Abby gains a profound understanding of the country's rich heritage and the deep-rooted values of its people. With each passing day, she becomes more enchanted, more connected to this vast land and its incredible history.

Six men and one woman are about to make maritime history as they sail the Pacific on a raft.

Starting in Vietnam and attempting to reach America on a bamboo raft, they are testing the theory that Asian soldiers reached America some 2,000 years ago.

Tim Severin begins his journey by going on a trial raft trip with two fishermen and after that is successful, he decides that Vietnam is the place for him to start his journey.

He names the raft Hsu Fu, after a Chinese mariner sent by the first Emperor of China to explore for islands in the Pacific and after a long eighteen months of planning and building, they are ready to set sail. There's just one thing left: his crew.

The team: Tim, Loi, Joe, Mark, Geoffrey, Rex and Nina have a long journey ahead of them. From searches by Japanese police to encounters with pirates, it's a challenging and weary journey.

Will they all get there alive?

And will they be able to keep the peace in the small space they all share together?

Or will 'The China Voyage' prove catastrophic for them all?

In 'The China Voyage', world-renowned explorer Tim Severin's account of this unparalleled exploit provides us with one of the most remarkable sea adventures ever told.

Praise for Tim Severin:

'Tim Severin is one of the last of the old-style explorers...His deeds speak to us of the purity of achievement in an age where experience has become blunted by comfort and complacency. We watch them, awed ... A vivid picture of the aching space of the ocean} the loneliness of the long-distance sailor' The TIMES

'The story of this courageous quest is gripping and a wonderful armchair escape to real adventure from an increasingly mundane world' SUNDAY EXPRESS

‘An extraordinary experiment, and by implication a study of man’s desire to set himself gruelling tasks and to set to them with great ingenuity and courage...This well-illustrated book is awash with nautical and hydrographic detail, which he manages to make interesting and accessible even to the avowed landlubber... Fascinating’ SCOTSMAN

Tim Severin is an explorer, film-maker and lecturer, who has made many expeditions, from crossing the Atlantic in a medieval leather boat to going out in search of Moby Dick and Robinson Crusoe. He has won the Thomas Cook Travel Book Award, the Book of the Sea Award, a Christopher Prize, and the literary medal of the Academie de la Marine. His books include ‘Crusader’, ‘The Sindbad Voyage’, ‘The Brendan Voyage’, ‘The Jason Voyage’ and ‘The Ulysses Voyage’.
