

The Enchanting Tale of the Old Woman Who Lived In a Vinegar Bottle - A Littlefolk Picture Book

Once upon a time in a quaint village nestled amidst lush greenery, lived a kind-hearted old woman. She was known for her compassionate nature and willingness to help others. People often sought her advice and assistance in their times of need.

One chilly autumn evening, as the leaves gently fell from the trees, the old woman returned to her humble cottage after a long day of gathering herbs and berries. Suddenly, out of nowhere, a mischievous fairy appeared before her.

The fairy, delighted by the old woman's benevolence, decided to reward her with a magical power. "Dear old woman," the fairy said graciously, "I shall grant you a wish. However, there is one condition. Whatever you wish for, you must live in it until the end of time."

Surprised yet filled with curiosity, the old woman pondered her one wish. After a moment's thought, she uttered, "Kind fairy, I wish to live in a vinegar bottle."

The fairy, surprised by the peculiar request, granted her wish. In an instant, the old woman found herself living inside a tiny vinegar bottle. The bottle was cozy, yet small, leaving the old woman with limited space to move around.

Life in the Vinegar Bottle

Days turned into weeks, and weeks turned into months; the old woman adjusted to her new life in the vinegar bottle. Although her surroundings were snug, she remained resilient and never lost her compassionate spirit.

As time passed, the villagers discovered the old woman's unusual dwelling. They were astounded by her resilience and kindness, considering the challenging circumstances she found herself in. People from far and wide started visiting her, seeking her advice and marveling at her ability to find joy in the most confined of spaces.

Children, especially, were captivated by the sight of the old woman living in a vinegar bottle. They saw her as a source of inspiration, teaching them the importance of resilience, perseverance, and finding happiness within oneself, despite limited resources.

An Unexpected Turn of Events

One fateful day, the mischievous fairy appeared before the old woman again. "Dear old woman," the fairy said, "You have proven your unwavering spirit and touched the lives of many. As a reward for your kindness and resilience, I shall grant you a new wish."

Overwhelmed with gratitude, the old woman thanked the fairy and made her new wish. "Kind fairy," she exclaimed, "I wish to live in a beautiful home, surrounded by the lush greenery and joyous laughter of the village children."

The fairy, touched by the old woman's selflessness, granted her wish. In an instant, the old woman was freed from the vinegar bottle and found herself in a magnificent cottage, overlooking the picturesque village.

Oh what a pity, what a pity pity pity! With this refrain, the old woman in the vinegar bottle complains until she gets a cottage ... then a row house ... then a mansion ... How far will she move up before she's satisfied? Acclaimed storyteller and children's librarian Margaret Read MacDonald pairs a whiny old woman with a no-nonsense fairy in a comical tale of ever-expanding greed and its natural result. Nancy Dunaway Fowlkes's expansive India ink and watercolor illustrations capture MacDonald's high-spirited rendering of this classic British fairy tale.
