Anne Frank was born on June 12, 1929, in Frankfurt, Germany. She was the second daughter of Otto and Edith Frank, a Jewish family that operated a successful business. Life in Amsterdam

In Amsterdam, the Franks rebuilt their lives, with Anne and Margot attending school and making new friends. Anne blossomed into a bright, inquisitive young girl, displaying a talent for writing that would later capture the hearts of countless readers.

Tragically, their newfound stability would be short-lived. In 1940, the Nazis invaded the Netherlands, and the oppressive policies against Jewish individuals intensified. The Franks, like many others, were forced into hiding to escape persecution.

The Secret Annex

For over two years, the Frank family, along with four others, hid in a secret annex concealed behind Otto Frank's business premises. During their time in hiding, Anne documented their experiences in a diary she received on her thirteenth birthday.

The diary, affectionately named "Kitty," became Anne's confidant and a means of escape from the harsh realities of their confined existence. She poured her thoughts, dreams, and fears onto its pages, providing an intimate glimpse into life in hiding.

The Power of Anne's Words

Anne's diary is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit, a profound and honest account of a young girl's odyssey through the chaos of war. Her words speak not only of her own struggles but also offer a voice to millions who perished during the Holocaust.

Tragically, Anne and her family were discovered and arrested by the Nazis in August 1944. They were transported to various concentration camps, where Anne's father Otto was the only survivor.

It was Otto Frank who eventually published Anne's diary, fulfilling her dream of becoming a writer and ensuring that her message of hope and compassion would live on. Since its publication, "The Diary of a Young Girl" has been translated into countless languages and has become one of the most widely read books in the world.

In 1933, at the age of four, Anne Frank and her family fled from the Nazis in Germany and sought safe haven in Amsterdam, the Netherlands. In 1940, when the Germans invaded the Netherlands, the Frank family once again feared for their lives. Like tens of thousands of Dutch Jews, the Franks went into hiding. They lived in several hidden rooms -- known as the "Secret Annex" -- above Mr. Frank's office building. It was there that Anne wrote her now-famous diary. The Franks lived in hiding for two years before they were discovered and sent to Auschwitz, the most well-known and feared concentration camp. Anne Frank gave a human face to the victims of the Holocaust and a courageous voice to all those who were silenced.

Though Anne Frank only lived to the age of fifteen, her inspirational childhood is perhaps the best known in history.
