Travel back to a special time and place: the Chicago dance scene of the 1980s, when disco ruled and many inner-city kids were either in a competitive dance group or a gang. One of the most successful dance groups of that era was the All Stars Dancers formed by Gringo Echevarria, a self-taught dancer and choreographer, who actually took his talented group of young dancers to the big stage—while also traveling with the famous Argentinean duo, Pimpinela, as their choreographer.

You will become immersed in their world, their exciting lives, and the ups and downs of growing up while trying to make it out of the hood. In short, live the Real Dance Fever; they were there and they mattered.
