The Tyrannosaurus, also known as the T-Rex, was one of the largest carnivorous dinosaurs that ever lived. With its massive skull, sharp teeth, and powerful hind limbs, it instilled fear in the hearts of its prey. Let's begin drawing our T-Rex!

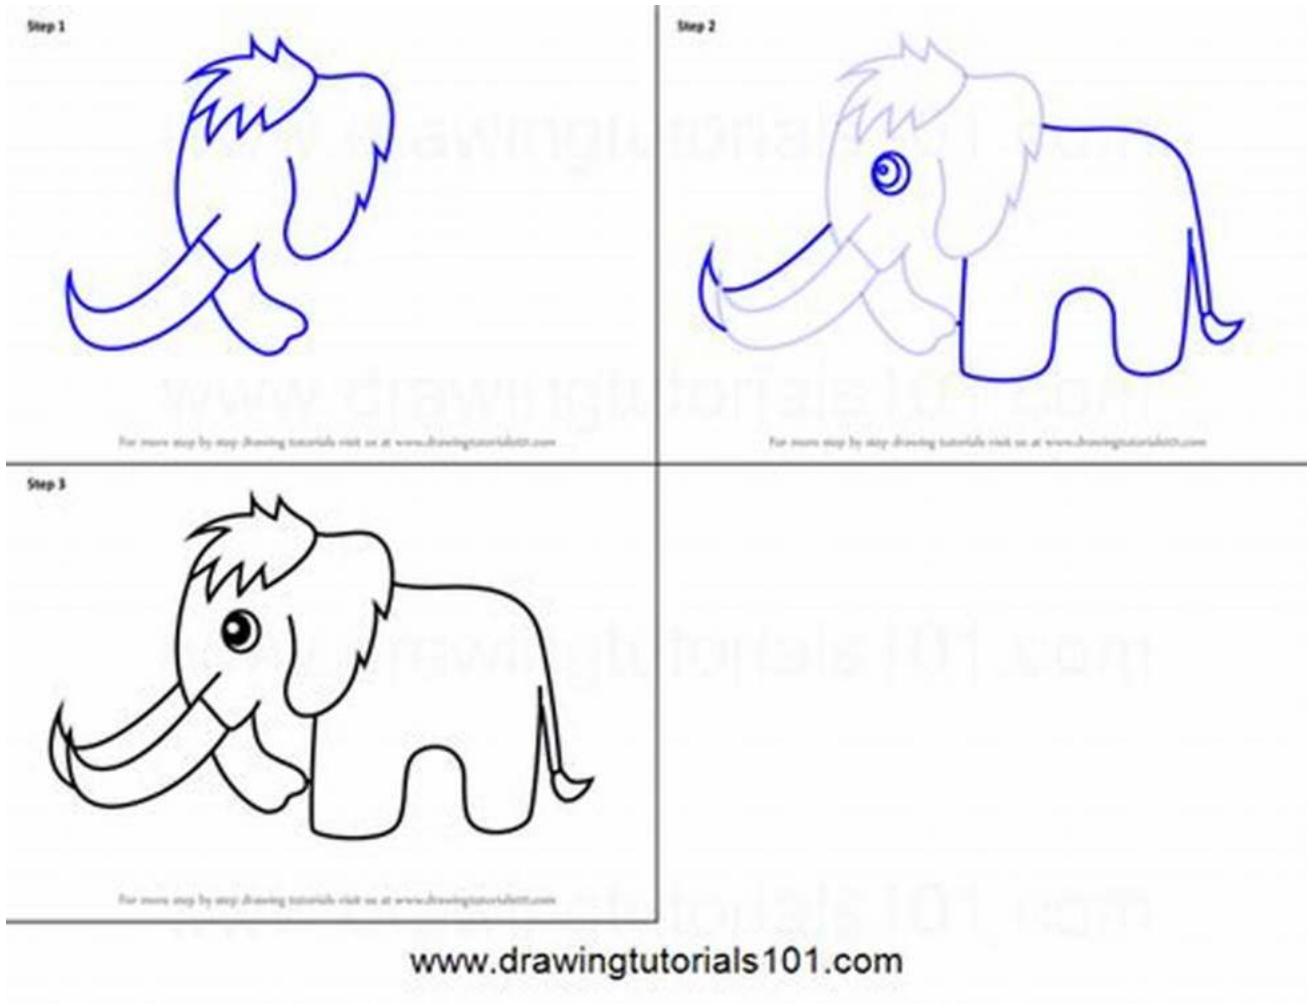

Step 1: Start by sketching the basic outline of the T-Rex's body. Pay attention to the overall shape and proportions. Remember, the T-Rex had short arms, a long tail, and a large head.

Step 2: Now, let's add the details. Draw the T-Rex's eyes, mouth with sharp teeth, and scales on its body. Don't forget to include the tiny arms on its chest.

Step 3: Once you are satisfied with the main features, start shading the drawing to give it depth and dimension. Add shadows in areas where the light doesn't hit, such as under the chin and around the eyes.

Step 4: Finally, add some final touches to your drawing by refining the details and erasing any unnecessary lines. Congratulations! You have successfully drawn a fearsome T-Rex.

The Woolly Mammoth

The Woolly Mammoth, with its long, curved tusks and shaggy coat, was well adapted to survive in cold climates. Let's learn how to draw this magnificent creature.

Step 1: Begin by sketching the basic shape of the Woolly Mammoth. Pay attention to its large body, long tusks, and distinct hump on its back.

Step 2: Now, add the details. Draw the Woolly Mammoth's eyes, ears, trunk, and the texture of its fur. Remember to include the curved tusks and the distinctive hump on its back.

Step 3: Once you have outlined the main features, start shading the drawing to give it depth and texture. Use short, curved strokes to mimic the woolly texture of the mammoth's coat.

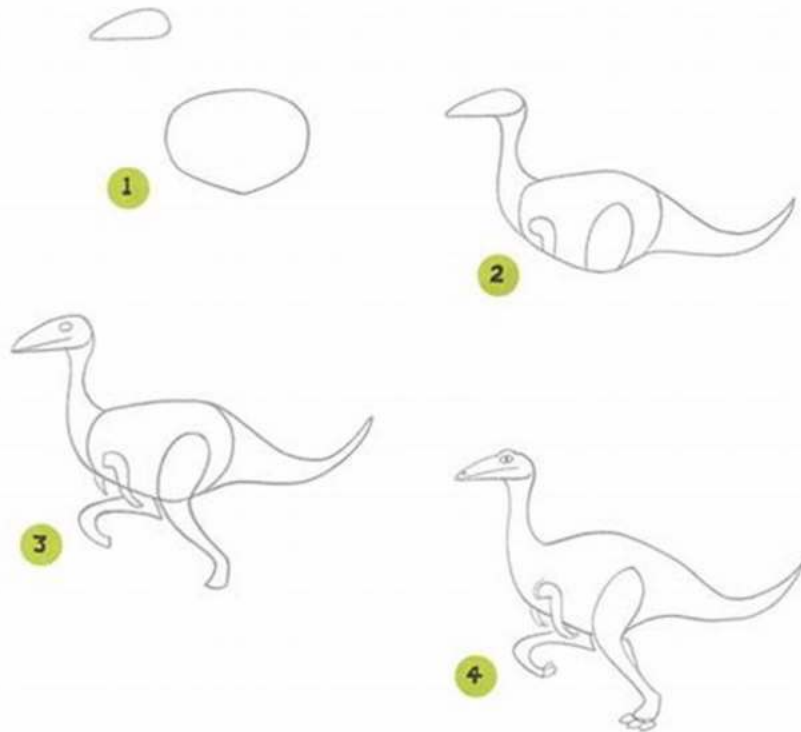

Step 4: Finally, refine the details and erase any unnecessary lines. Add some final touches to make your Woolly Mammoth come alive. Well done!

These step-by-step instructions can be applied to many more prehistoric creatures, allowing you to expand your artistic repertoire. With patience and practice, you can bring these ancient animals back to life on paper.

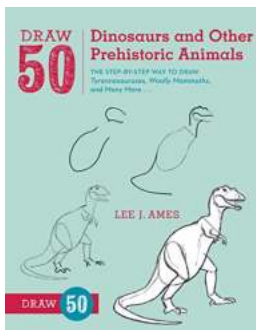

Don't miss the opportunity to unleash your creativity and show the world your love for prehistoric creatures. Start drawing your own Tyrannosaurus, Woolly Mammoth, and many more today!

ornithomimus means "bird mimic," so it should come as no surprise that this dinosaur's neck and legs were shaped like those of an ostrich!
