How does it work?

Now Reading Level employs a robust algorithm that analyzes various linguistic features within a text. Through natural language processing techniques, it assesses factors such as word frequency, syntactic complexity, and overall text difficulty. The algorithm then assigns a Now Reading Level, ranging from beginner to advanced.

The assessment process is simple and user-friendly. You can take a quick test or upload a sample text to have it analyzed. The algorithm rapidly evaluates your chosen text and generates your unique Now Reading Level report. This report indicates the specific level and provides tailored recommendations for further reading.
