Unraveling the Groundhog's Prophetic Abilities

One of the most popular legends associated with Groundhog Day is based on a belief that emerged from German folklore. It is believed that if a hibernating animal, such as a groundhog, awakens from its slumber on the 2nd of February and sees its shadow due to clear weather conditions, it gets frightened and retreats back into its burrow. This act is interpreted as an omen that winter will persist for six more weeks.
