When Magic Follows Midnight is the enchanting first tale in this series of magical children's camp novels.

Camp Arbor is SO MUCH BETTER than any other summer camp! Why? Well, to begin with, it is in a tree. A tree so large it disappears into clouds and each of the branches holds a new fantastic adventure. Instead of doing silly activities like scavenger hunts or scrap-booking, camp teaches us how to cast spells and bake cookies which turn you invisible! Best of all, you can ride magical creatures! The camp is full of them—some are beautiful and friendly, others nasty and treacherous, but all are fantastic beyond imagining!

But there is also a darker side to camp, one which is a little scary...

One morning I woke to discover a camper had disappeared in the middle of the night. Just vanished without a trace. Poof. If that isn't bad enough, things got even creepier when strangers arrived and warned me to leave while I still could. But my worst day was when my best friend, Rockston—he's a dwarf—went missing. I had to try and rescue him and the other missing children before they were gone forever. Luckily, I had a magical summer camp filled with fantasy creatures to help me.

But would it be enough?
